

Easy Hunting Scarf by Tabitha

I have a preacher friend who asked me to knit him a scarf for hunting. It needed to be simple and functional and most of all warm.

The ribbing makes a thick, cozy, non-curling scarf that is narrow enough to wrap around your neck without strangling you but stretchy enough to pull up over your face when the added warmth is needed. This pattern also works great in yarn that isn't camo.

Here it is, my first written out knitting pattern.

Supplies:

- Approximately 350 yards hideously ugly your favorite camouflage color worsted weight yarn. I used acrylic because I couldn't find a wool in camo color.
- Size 8 (5.0mm) needles
- Tapestry needle
- Lots of patience

Finished dimensions: Approximately 5<sup>1</sup>/<sub>2</sub> X 67 inches

Gauge: Not critical. Mine came out about 7 stitches per inch but since this is ribbing you are really only seeing about 3.5 stitches per inch (the purl stitches hide)

Cast on 40 stitches using your favorite cast on method. I used the Long Tail method.

Row 1: Knit 1X1 ribbing (K1 P1) to end of row ending with K1

Row 2: Slip the first stitch purlwise with yarn in back. (P1 K1) to end of row ending with P1.

Repeat Row 2 until you are nearly out of yarn, you are so sick of camo that you are about to barf or until you have reached the desired length whichever comes first.

Bind off using favorite method. I used EZ's sewn bind off because I don't have to worry about binding off too tightly.

Weave ends and present to your favorite hunter.

This pattern knits us rather quickly and is nearly easy enough to knit in your sleep.
